Journal of Theological Interpretation
Tim Meadowcroft, editor in chief
Critical biblical scholarship as developed and defined since the mid-eighteenth century has played a significant and welcome role in pressing us to take biblical texts seriously on their own terms and diverse contexts. With the postmodern turn, additional questions have surfaced—including the theological and ecclesial location of biblical interpretation, the significance of canon and creed for biblical hermeneutics, the historical reception of biblical texts, and other more pointedly theological interests. How might we engage interpretively with the Christian Scriptures so as to hear and attend to God’s voice? The Journal of Theological Interpretation aims to serve these agendas.

Milton Studies
Stephen B. Dobranski, editor

Milton Studies is published biannually as a forum for scholarship on John Milton (1608–74), using a range of approaches and methodologies to elucidate the life and works of the influential poet and polemicist. Essays submitted for publication may focus on any aspect of Milton’s life and writing, including biography; literary history; Milton’s work in its literary, intellectual, political, or cultural contexts; Milton’s influence on or relationship to other writers; or the history of critical and creative response to his work. Target audience includes graduate students and literary scholars who specialize in Milton or in early modern (Renaissance) literature, as well as (secondarily) historians and literary historians of early modern religion, politics, and cultural history.

Preternature
Critical and Historical Studies on the Preternatural
Debbie Felton, editor

Preternature is an interdisciplinary forum for the study of the preternatural as seen in magics, witchcraft, spiritualism, occultism, prophecy, monstrophy, demonology, and folklore. The journal embraces a broad and dynamic definition of the preternatural, since the very categories of magic, religion, and science are open and active registers that the journal strives to explore, contextualize, and challenge. As an English language publication, the Western tradition is inevitably an important focus, but the journal strongly encourages submissions covering cultural traditions worldwide.

Studies in American Jewish Literature
Benjamin Schreier, editor

The influence on American culture of thinkers such as Roth, Bellow, Malamud, Piercy, Wiesel, Potok, and Chabon cannot be overstated. Their impact can be seen in literature, philosophy, theater, and film. Studies in American Jewish Literature explores a field that has advanced in large part due to the efforts of Daniel Walden, who founded the journal in 1975. Articles on the ongoing influence, relevance, and significance of American Jewish writers contribute to our understanding of their unique place in literature and their role in portraying the complexity and richness of American Jewish life and experience.

Studies in the American Short Story
James Nagel, editor

Studies in the American Short Story is the journal of the Society for the Study of the American Short Story. It publishes articles, notes, reviews, interviews, memoirs, and other materials related to short fiction in America. It is aimed at literary scholars, students of literature, libraries, and general serious readers. It covers all forms of American short fiction in English from its origin in the eighteenth century to the present. It does not discriminate on the basis of race, nationality, ethnicity, or any other reason.

Style
John V. Knapp, editor

Style invites submissions that address questions of style, stylistics, and poetics—as we have traditionally. These submissions may include research and theory in discourse analysis, literary and nonliterary genres, narrative, figuration, metrics, and rhetorical analysis. In addition, Style also now welcomes contributions employing recent developments in several psychologies—cognition, bioevolutionary psychology, family systems, and human development—as those may relate to the study of literature and the humanities. Furthermore, the editors will be pleased to consider submissions on pedagogy generally as such relate to the teaching of literature and the humanities.
The Scriblerian and the Kit-Cats

Neil Guthrie, Melanie Holm, and E. Derek Taylor, editors

Since 1968, The Scriblerian and the Kit-Cats has offered imaginative, insightful, and concise reviews of scholarship addressing British literature of the late seventeenth- and early eighteenth-centuries. The biannual journal offers knowledgeable responses to recent peer-reviewed essays on figures such as Addison, Behn, Congreve, Defoe, Dryden, Haywood, Fielding, Richardson, Swift, and Sterne, as well reviews of recent books on the history, literature, and culture of the period. Notes and bibliographical commentary often accompany the Scriblerian’s comprehensive article and book reviews.

Code of Publishing Ethics

Penn State University Press takes seriously the responsibility of all of its journal publications to reflect the highest in publication ethics. Thus all journals and journal editors are expected to abide by the following codes of ethics.1

Penn State University Press
1. Will establish in its publications agreements clear descriptions of its own and the journal editor’s duties and responsibilities, as well as those of any other entity affected by the agreement.
2. Will make every effort to respect the privacy of reviewers and readers of manuscripts submitted for review; should any research involve unidentified subjects, efforts to protect their identity will be a priority.
3. Will protect the copyright and intellectual property rights of its authors and contributors.
4. Will promote editorial autonomy.
5. Will protect the right of free speech.

General duties and responsibilities of editors
1. Editors are responsible for everything published in their journals.
   1.1. They will endeavor to:
       1.1.1. meet the needs of readers and authors;
       1.1.2. improve the journal;
       1.1.3. maintain the quality of the material they publish;
       1.1.4. champion freedom of expression;
       1.1.5. maintain the integrity of the academic record;
       1.1.6. preclude business needs from compromising intellectual standards;
       1.1.7. always be willing to publish corrections, clarifications, retractions, and apologies when needed.
2. Relations with readers
   2.1. If applicable, readers will be informed about who has funded research and about the role of the funders in the research.
3. Relations with authors
   3.1. Editors should take all reasonable steps to ensure the quality of the material they publish.
   3.4. Editors’ decisions to accept or reject a paper for publication should be based only on the paper’s importance, originality, and clarity, and the manuscript’s relevance to the journal.
   3.5. A description of peer review processes should be published, and editors should be ready to justify any important deviation from the described processes.
   3.6. Journals should have a declared mechanism for authors to appeal against editorial decisions.
   3.7. Editors should provide authors with clear submissions guidelines.
   3.8. Editors should not reverse decisions to accept submissions unless serious problems are identified with the submission.
   3.9. Incoming editors should not reverse decisions to publish submissions made by the previous editor unless serious problems are identified.
4. Editors, the peer review process, and relations with reviewers
   4.10. Editors should provide reviewers with guidelines, which should be current.
   4.11. Editors should strive to protect peer reviewers’ identities.
   4.12. Editors should ensure that material submitted to their journal remains confidential while under review.

Why Publish With Us

Located on the main campus of The Pennsylvania State University, the Press has been dedicated to the publication of current scholarship through its journals division since the late 1960s.
